Somaliweyn – Mohammed Omar Hussein

The Somali Albinos communities at the Kenyan refugees Camps in Dadaab in North Eastern Province of Kenya are inhumanly treated by their other fellow Somalis and as well as people from other races such as the southern Sudanese and the other Kenyan communities in the Camps.

Somaliweyn website had the access to have an interview with an Albino mother who has her 3 Albion children with her.

The mother says that she and her three children are greatly discriminated by the other people of all races, not knowing the reason why they are doing so.

"I have arrived here in this refugee's camp of Ifo at Dadaab in Kenya immediately after the collapse of Mohamed Siyar Barre's regime in the year 1991, since then we have been facing greater challenges from people of all other races here in this camp because of the complexion of our body, which great God has bestowed on us, our body complexion is not a crime we have committed against anybody, we have reported this case to the Kenyan police station in the camp, and yet the police have not taken any tangible actions related to our reports, we have also report the case to the United Nation High Commissioner Refuges office here in Ifo, the officials in the UN office have as well turned blind eyes to the mistreatments by the other communities against us" said Amina Ibrahim an Albino mother who has Albion children.

Amina also complains that her children do not just like the other children in the refugee's camp.

"I once took my children to a nearby school, and they were stoned and scared away by the other children from the other communities, they came home weeping and gasping because of the running they made during the chase" added mother Amina.

This mother has appealed from the UN agencies in the refugee's camps to involve the situation, and if possible offer the Albions children a different place where their children can go for schooling.

Albinos live in several countries in Africa, but it was only recently when the Albiono communities were killed for some parts of their bodies for superstitions related matters, which say that if an Albino's limbs is placed somewhere in a house the people of that house will be damn reach.

Some of these countries where the Albinos were hunted were Tanzania, Kenya, Burundi and Burundi.
